Famine in India.

engaged in discussing the threatened famine in India, and the means by which the calamity may be reduced in magnitude if not averted. A few facts gathered from the Calcutta correspondence, of the Times will show the state of the case. The consumption of rice in Bengal is 87,000 tons; the famine is supposed likely to affect more than one-third of the population, or over twenty millions of people. Ordinarily, Bengal produces enough for its own consumption, and considerable quantities are exported. Last season, however, very nearly 600,000 tons. This year

rice crop has totally failed in many districts and is very scanty at the best. 2

Prune Orchards.

"Trees that are hardly more than midwinters," provided no larger and more numerous orchard property was attended to than the orchards of large families. We often see reconstructions to prune early in summer, but the wounds heal rapidly at that time. The trees are pruned in the early part of the summer, and the cuts very sparingly exposed, or provided with stanchions in a very rich soil and grow great vigor. But early summer pruning is not so good, for the cuts heal slowly, and the growth of the trees, and if vigor of growth is not always present before the buds begin swell—either in winter or very early in the spring. It is provided the cuts from the flow of sap, cover the wound with paint, grafting wax, sealine wax, or mixture of tar and brick dust and the tree will be able to heal without exposing the cut surface will become in a few weeks that either of these

Cooling Milk.

After describing a new machine for cooling milk, which could be used in the milk, and standing in the welling of farmers to assume the labor and trouble necessary to cool their milk when in a hurry to get it in the factory, the Star says:

The matter should be made compulsory on all parties delivering milk. In hot weather we are likely to have a vast deal of second rate cheese simply from inability to treat the milk before it arrives at the factory.

It has been demonstrated repeatedly that the cooling and aeration of milk at the farm and as soon as drawn from the cow, put in condition to keep good for a much longer period than when no such treatment is had. It has been repeatedly proved that during the earliest of warm milk to the factory it decomposes rapidly, and ages unequally, in hot weather, becomes putrid and rancid. Pleasant curds are the result of each milk, and air could have been avoided had the milk been cooled and aerated as soon as drawn from the cow. For the cooling and aeration of the milk, the floating curds and poor cheese under such circumstances, is unmitigated abuse, and yet we are not infrequently hear of cases of this kind, and where the patrons have resorted to law to compel the manufacturer to make good the loss on such cheese. We believe that cheese makers should be held responsible for their work when they have good material to handle but to compel them to bear the loss on rotten milk caused by neglect of patrons, is not much better than robbery, to say the least.

No one but those who have had experience in the manufacture of bad milk can appreciate the variation in the manipulation and the trouble the curds and cheese will sometimes give. If patrons could have a realistic sense of this side of the question, they would be the more ready to adopt means for improvement.

Again, every factory that sends out ill flavored or defective curds, not only loses in reputation and money receipts, but by throwing such goods upon the market, the sale and price of fine cheese are more of less affected.

The great variety of apparatus now to be had for cooling and aeration, milk, its cheapness, and the benefits which accrue from its use, demand a more general adoption, it would seem, than it now obtains. We hope factory men and all others interested in the improvement of their cheese during, will urge forward this movement, for it is one which can be adopted at once with profit.

AN APPLICATION will be made to the Legislature of the Province of Ontario at its next sitting, for an Act to consolidate and amend and replace into one Act the several Acts relating to the Grand Junction Railway, and to give to each shareholder a vote upon each share held by him, to determine the manner of electing Directors, their powers and duties. Also, to determine the powers and duties of the Board of Directors for the transaction of business, and to declare and settle the rights, liabilities and position with respect to the Company of the several Municipal Corporations who have by Bonds or subscription of Stock, aided said Company. Belleville, Nov. 10th, 1878.

Allen's Lung Balm

Don't Delay.

One week, one day, and it may be too late. Consumption with its long train of sufferings is waiting to enter you to the long home of its many victims who have gone before.

Allen's Lung Balm can produce more evidence of real merit than any other article for the purpose. It is sold everywhere. Read the following extracts from a letter received from Mr. E. E. Burwell, a well-known merchant of Ontario.

Dear Sir: I was suffering from a severe cold, which settled on my lungs and produced a distressing cough for which I gave trial of a number of Cough Medicines but without any benefit. I at last tried one bottle of Allen's Lung Balm, which I am happy to be able to state gave almost immediate relief and performed a perfect cure in a short time.

Yours truly,
E. E. BURWELL.

Flint, Ont., March 4th, 1874.

C. E. Kyles, of Uxbridge, writes October 1873 and says: "I was suffering from the excellent quality of Allen's Lung Balm as a remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs. I know it to be all it is recommended to be."

Mr. Capt. Norman, of Millbridge, Ontario, writes Aug. 1873: "Allen's Lung Balm cured my son of a severe attack of consumption of the lungs. He took no other medicine and, under the treatment of Allen's Lung Balm, he is now perfectly cured, and is able to do all his usual work."

Allen's Lung Balm, which is sold by Allen's Lung Balm, who would give certificates if asked.

ANNUAL CONVENTION.
AFTERNOON SESSION.
The Convention re-assembled at 3 o'clock p.m., there being an attendance of about 400 to 450. Mr. Yates, on assuming the chair, stated that he was called upon unexpectedly to preside, in the absence of the President and Vice-President. He had heard from Mr. Graham who could not be present, to-day, and though he had not heard from the President, he hoped that gentlemen would turn up during the day. He then called

Two years ago, said Prof. Bell, the factories in this County, in operation, could be counted on the fingers; for though there were twenty-three factories registered in the County of Hastings, of which only two had suspended operations, and several others registered had not yet begun work, only three or four thirty factories were doing business in the County. He then announced to commence this Saturday, and several others are in agitation, though not likely broadly at the same time, so that in 1874 there will be at least forty factories in operation in Hastings. In all, probably, 300 factories will be in operation in Canada. The quantity of cheese shipped from Belleville Station of the Grand Trunk Railway, alone amounts to the large number of 58,716 boxes, containing a net weight of 6,995,175 lbs., whilst, a

At this total quantity Heston estimates $30,000,000; "the cattle, 626, 281 lbs.; Leifur's cattle, 79,000 lbs., weighing 144,510 lbs.; Prince Ward, 1,085 boxes, weighing 68, 967 lbs.; Northumberland, 1,973 boxes, weighing 128,008 lbs. The money value of Hastings cheese is $285,257; so that farmers of the County who have sent in the cheese movement have received the rate of $1,059 per cask and every farmer has been able to get his share. I add to this the value of all the cheese shipped at all the stations of the Great Western and Grand Trunk Railways, Cornwall to Barnes and thence to Quebec which cannot be less than five times sum, and we have $5,000 a day or $1,800,000 a year, coming to the farmers cheese makers of Canada, from the side aisle of cheese, over and above the speaker then went on to say that the iron industry in England was not suffering from unemployment, as it were, to compensate for falling off in the supply of timber and the ill effects of the abolition of the Reciprocity Treaty with the United States. The question "Will this prosperous state of the chess business be permanent?" answered in the affirmative; and added statistics to show that not only would be the case, but that there was no danger of a glut of iron in the market. The manufacturers in England—now smart—having fallen off to late years large extent, and the consumption of the country being on the increase, its capacity being 8,000,000 lbs per year, quotation from a circular issued in April, 1874, by John Ord and Sons, London, England, speaks highly of the iron clerks, stating that the iron clerks of the country were not suffering from unemployment.

The States. He also quoted from the report of judges at a competition in Canada, which was held in 1906, in which Canada was the only competitor with her neighbor across the line, but with the best marks in Britain. The best method of fertilizing the pasture were touched upon as follows: (1) length, and the great advantage of dairy farming as an enriching process. (2) poor or exhausted land forcibly urged the practice of allowing the pasture to rest in a fallow season. (3) the importance of the use of manure for the health of the soil and consequently its effect upon their product. The relation of dairy products to the general health of the community formed a considerable portion of the course, it being shown that typhoid and other diseases had been generated in milk. He strongly urged the necessity of beginning the day with a hearty breakfast in order to secure a satisfactory day's work, showing that the

That a company has been organized to work to increase the production of butter from the tallows, which, with the addition of a little devoting, closely resembles the genuine product of the cow. He recommended the making of butter in the winter, which is found to be highly profitable in England, and to skim milk through the centrifugal cream separator, which is the best way to make cheese. Conant was also mentioned in a paragraph. It was his opinion that consumers of cheese should be interested in the annual convention, and attend it when their tastes could be consulted, would be wise, also, to vary the size and quality of the cheese, so as to give variety to this class of our production. Prof. Farnham said that the butter industry was really being maintained by our factories as to which should turn the finest products, and concluded his excellent address as follows:—Let, then,

The subject was then, on motion of Mr. Ashley, laid on the table.

An invitation was tendered by Dr. Palmer, for the Convention to visit the Institution for the deaf and dumb. The Convention could not adjourn to go, in consequence of the pressure of business.

Dr. PALMER was heard, and offered, if the Convention could not come as a body to give an exhibition to those who could come, at any time after Nov. 1st/80.

The report of the Committee on nominations was then taken up.

The Auditors report was then read, showing a balance of $80.67.

Another good idea would be to exhibit at Dairyfarmers' Conventions samples of standard cheese. He also commended the holding of cheese fairs. He went on to say that the holding of cheese fairs could not be made from bad milk but less depended on the quality of the milk than was generally supposed. The important thing was to have it free from objectionable was generally identified with hot weather, which caused the cow to become fevered, and the milk to become "bad water" and too rich food was also among the causes. In talset he did not mean to incite the devotion from the natural flavor recognized by the use of turpals or cabbage or other strong smelling or tasting foods that carry their odours or flavour into the milk: He only meant that peculiar smell which is its extreme development present produced floating curds. To keep cows in good health he recommended the planting of shade trees in their pastures, and the supplying of them with plenty of good water. He asserted that not a drop of cream which was taken from his dairy could be traced to any of the above causes.

factories had entirely suspended the making of cheese for a time, while cattle were feeding off hay. Milk from cattle pastured on dry ground would not cure as easily as that from cattle pastured on moist ground, and would keep longer. Land in the cheese producing districts of Canada was of a dry nature, hence the reputation of cheese from the keeping qualities as compared with that manufactured in the States. The cause of this dryness of soil was the unusual ploughing it had undergone for so long a time in its preparation for the growing of wheat. Owing to the quality of the soil and our cheese was not at least the same amount of acid as cheese manufactured in Herkimer County, New York, where the pastures were more moist.

A speaker asked if the cream which rises

Prof. ARNOLD said that depended on the manner in which it was worked up. If the cream were put into the strainer before the mororoli's milk was strained, and the whole stirred up by hand, as the record was put in, and stirred up later, and then the whole was left very few minutes allowed for coagulation, it might be so used. He also said that the cream which was on the milk at the house of patroness where it was called for could be used in that way. In reply to other questions he said that hard curd required less salting than the other, and that in order to get rid of the salt in impure milk, it was necessary to heat it above 60 degrees, but if the milk was heated

He heard himself kick it down to the ground. He considered that good chum could be made from Saturday night milk. The milk immediately it was brought to the table, he heated it up to about 185 degrees Fahrenheit, then using only a small quantity of rennet but a pretty strong acid and afterwards cooling it thoroughly and salting it properly, what if milk was tainted it would be best to skin it because the taint would be chummy in the cream. If the cheese made was naturally hard, however, and it was difficult to give it a good texture, as in the case of skimming, would the whey, as it was called, be made by doing. He was sure and there would be no difficulty in keeping Saturday night's milk over until Monday if plenty of cold water was available.

A vote of thanks was then tendered to Prof. Arnold for his address.

The next business was the reception of a report from the Finance Committee, after which the contents of a question drawer, which had been open during the Convention, were taken out and answered. Among the points brought out was the fact that the speaker had shown that it was possible to have a good day and only brought to the factory once a day.

This business order, a vote of thanks was passed to the Chairman, and the Convention adjourned. The speaker, who was the guest of the Convention, may be remarked that though the attendance was smaller than at the last year, yet the speaker was well received. Consequently, the speaker was well received. Consequently, the speaker was well received.

As regards the address presented at the daily sessions, our visitors from New York state who have seen many gatherings of like nature gave it as their opinion that they had never seen a more intelligent audience of day-laborers gathered together.

The New Brunswick School Question.

From what has transpired and what is transpiring, both in New Brunswick and New Brunswick, it is quite evident that an attempt is to be made to effect a change in the Confederation Act as to compel the establishment of separate schools, not only in New Brunswick, but in all the Provinces, and we shall not be at all surprised to find that the present Government, in its attempt to force its will upon the people, is doing so in a manner that is not only unjust, but also, in the eyes of the people, is a gross violation of the Confederation Act.

That there is mischief being done beyond a doubt, seeing that Mr. Coit's words are not to be taken as a mere statement of fact, but as a statement of policy, and that the Government is doing so in a manner that is not only unjust, but also, in the eyes of the people, is a gross violation of the Confederation Act.

It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, untried by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases. Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Cheese Making.
At the recent session of the Mass. Board of Agriculture, held in Springfield, among the valuable and instructive essays read before the Society, was one from the pen of Mr. Goodale, Secretary of the Maine State Agricultural Society, on the subject of cheese making. The following is a brief abstract.

He said that a milk cow furnished the best and cheapest method of getting human food. The best necessary to make a pound of meat will make at least twenty pounds of milk. At an average, each cow produces a pound of cheese. In Leicester county, N. Y., the cows average fifty pounds of cheese a month per annum. A cow that will make less than her dressed weight in cheese, is, or should be sent to the butcher. England is our great cheese market for the English eat more cheese than Americans; 200,000 cows are kept in the single county of Cheshire, England. In Leicester county, N. Y., first taught the English to use the American cheese, and now ship them more than 40,000 pounds having the love of a true woman. His angelic forehead and unsmiling face, and the few deep wrinkles which creased his brow, gave him a look of sternness and gravity. He was dressed in a suit of black, and his hair was graying at the temples. He was seated at a table, and his hands were clasped together. He looked up at the speaker with a steady gaze, and his lips were set in a firm line. He seemed to be listening intently to every word that was said. His eyes were fixed on the speaker, and his hands were still. He was a man of great presence and dignity, and his words were full of wisdom and truth. He was a man who had lived a life of service and sacrifice, and his words were a testament to his faith and his love for his country. He was a man who had seen the best of humanity, and his words were a testament to his hope and his faith in the future. He was a man who had lived a life of service and sacrifice, and his words were a testament to his faith and his love for his country.

A Story With a Sequel.
One of the richest men in New York had called upon for a speech at a public meeting on the subject of the "New York City Police Department." He was a man of great presence and dignity, and his words were full of wisdom and truth. He was a man who had lived a life of service and sacrifice, and his words were a testament to his faith and his love for his country. He was a man who had seen the best of humanity, and his words were a testament to his hope and his faith in the future.
